LETTER FROM THE DIRECTOR

It has been my honor to serve the community as Director of The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Department of Parks and Recreation, Prince George's County. I am deeply grateful to be part of the impactful work happening across our Department to serve this vibrant and diverse community. As I reflect on my first 100 days, my commitment to family, community, and gold-medal customer care remains unwavering. As Muhammad Ali said, "Don't count the days, make the days count"—and that has guided every step of this journey.

As we embark on this journey together, I am focused on listening, learning, building relationships, and strengthening systems that support sustainable efficiency. Together with our leadership team and 5,400 dedicated employees, we will continue creating wins for our communities and families. Through our parks, museums, programs, and events, we aim to position Prince George's County as a destination that offers first-class recreational, cultural, and wellness experiences.

PEACE AND
Love

This work is never done alone. It takes unity, collaboration, and a shared commitment. Let us continue finding new ways to LIVE MORE, PLAY MORE. I look forward to bringing this same energy and passion into every day we serve—because we are the #1 Department of Parks and Recreation in the nation.

Peace and Love,
Darius A. Stanton

- Launching the Youth Trail Ambassador Program to cultivate youth leadership in outdoor recreation.

Looking ahead, our team will continue leading systems-based transformation and partnership expansion. Upcoming initiatives include revitalizing the Parks and Recreation Foundation, developing the Prince George's Plaza Multi-Generation Center, and launching the Leadership Institute. These efforts will support sustainable growth, measurable impact, and continued national excellence.

Director Stanton's first 100 days have laid the foundation for a future defined by innovation, equity, and community pride—ensuring every resident has opportunities to live more and play more.

DAILY OPERATIONS

A consistent daily rhythm keeps me connected, aligned, and future-focused. Each morning begins with intentional communication—checking in with leadership and support teams to coordinate priorities, address challenges, and maintain organizational momentum. Maintaining a strong field presence through a robust tour schedule allows me to visit facilities, meet staff, and engage directly with the community.

This balanced approach grounds me in both the immediate needs of our Department and our long-term strategic goals.

DAILY ACHIEVEMENTS INCLUDE:

- Held and attended over 300 meetings with staff and community partners.
- Attended over 20 events advancing cultural and recreational engagement.
- Visited more than 40 facilities, including community centers, historic sites, playgrounds, and parks.
- Engaged with the State's Attorney's office, Sherriff's Department and PGCPs to support truancy prevention, facilitate programs addressing domestic and youth violence, and strengthen partnerships with the school system.
- Established an enterprise and monetization position to support self-sustaining revenue streams.
- Represented the Department at The Maryland Association of Counties (MACO) & the National Recreation and Parks Association (NRPA) conferences.

Gold Standard Review

GOLD STANDARD CUSTOMER CARE

"As promised, I am writing to express my appreciation for the Project Charges Kickoff meeting you sponsored yesterday to provide clarification, enlightenment, resources and opportunities for partnerships. My exposure to Project Charges began in 2003 when I volunteered in my husband's office when he served as the Council Member representing the 6th Councilmanic District. My view was from the budgetary approval perspective. My exposure to the Project Charges from the recipient standpoint covered 2012 -2014, and 2016 to present, the latter time frame as the reimbursement submitter/Treasurer for the Lake Arbor Foundation, Inc. (The LAFI).

Today's meeting was an example of the relationship, in my view, which should exist between a government entity and the citizens it serves. I didn't mention this in the public statement I made but even in the exchange regarding the meeting's announcement and clarification regarding in-person vs virtual, both you and Ms. [Joyner] were warm, welcoming, responsive and confirmed my decision that I wanted to be in an in-person meeting so I could interact directly with the individuals involved with, in this instance, Project Charges. From your opening remarks describing your preparation and readiness to perform this role as servant-leader, sharing and introducing Mr. Enoch and his clarifying walk-through of the process/timeframes, having the Legal, Budget and Finance Teams available for immediate response to questions, and acknowledgment and transparency regarding the need to be in a better place process-wise with accountability, all were refreshing and comforting. As a retired Federal HR Manager, the designation of Ms. McCullough and Ms. Potts as hands-on, point persons to support the awardees, as well as Ms. [Joyner], signaled that you are committed to the improvement you recognize is needed to better serve your constituents. Therefore, I am pleased to reduce to writing my positive and unsolicited evaluation of the Project Charges Kickoff meeting which exceeded my expectations. Unknown to you, I have a basis of comparison as I attended a similar meeting in 2023; my commentary for that meeting was, at best, unfavorable.

I look forward to working with you and your staff as you move forward on the model of service you discussed and the sincerity and openness of your expressed message."

In service and thanks,

"Individually we are one drop but together we are an ocean." Ryunosuke Satoro

FUTURE INITIATIVES

The future of our programs and campaigns is vibrant, forward-thinking, and deeply rooted in community. We're launching a dynamic mix of initiatives that speak to both strategy and spirit by reimagining how we connect, engage, and grow together.

Picture neighborhoods buzzing with chess and pickleball tournaments, healing stations that offer moments of mindfulness, and "Talk Solutions with the Director" gatherings where real conversations spark new ideas and understanding.

The Leadership Institute will nurture emerging talent and empower the next generation of leaders, while grassroots efforts like community cleanups will inspire civic pride and strengthen neighborhood bonds.

At the center of it all is the revival of the Parks and Recreation Foundation, reigniting a powerful engine for innovation, sustainability, and lasting community impact.

“I've felt a wave of energetic inspiration flow across the Department since Director Stanton's first address to us. I personally love the fact that he uses the phrase "Peace and Love", for to me, that means he's coming from a place of Peace and Leading with Love. Looking forward to our future!”

THE ROAD AHEAD

The first 100 days have served as a launchpad for transformation, building momentum and unity. As we continue to elevate and amplify Prince George's County, key initiatives include preparing for the Parks and Recreation Summit, expanding external messaging, and assessing structural improvements to reinforce fairness and enhance performance.

As proud recipients of six national Gold Medals, we're not just celebrating our legacy—we're striving for a seventh, reaffirming Prince George's County's place as a national destination for excellence in parks, recreation, and community engagement. Together, we are writing the next chapter of what it means to live more, play more, and thrive in Prince George's County.

Looking ahead, we will continue building a future rooted in collaboration, innovation, and opportunity. Through strategic planning, contingency budgeting, expanded nonprofit partnerships, and increased awareness efforts—particularly around the Prince George's County Boys & Girls Clubs—we are shaping a stronger tomorrow for all who call Prince George's County home.

It has been an extraordinary first 100 days and beyond. Take a look at what we have accomplished together and hear how we will move forward with a "A New Era of Purposeful Progress."
